

Associate Distributor Program

The Associate Distributor Program (ADP) has been developed to recognize smaller distributors that support the ACDelco proposition and who will strengthen and complement the distribution of ACDelco products through-out the independent aftermarket (IAM). The ADP is intended to mutually grow our businesses and increase profitability selling ACDelco into the independent aftermarket.

The program is designed to assist small distributors build their business by offering program elements that are intended to increase sales and brand image and improve business operations. The more ACDelco products you purchase, the more benefits are available.
